Ranjana Kanti,
Director
Clay n' Color

There is a saying that 'you can't have a cake and eat it too,' but it seems that ranjana kanti embodies the opposite of this saying everybody in her life. She maintains a perfect balance between activities like running her advertisement, movies production house and animation business which she co-founded: immersing herself in multitude of social activities and looking after her family. On top of that, she is also doing post graduation in "Social enterprise" during weekends. Probably, she doesn't even realize how big a deal is! A recent recipient of Global Youth Award 2009, she is an inspiration to everyone whose life she has touched during the last two decade. Growing up in middle - class family, she fulfilled what was from her parents as well as society. After her graduation from Delhi University, she got married to a marine engineer and was blessed with two sons.

Everything seemed to be going well for her but she understood that life has something more to offer and she needs to find her but her true potential and also do something more for society. She immersed herself in entrepreneurial activities like selling up state-of-the-art animation studios for overseas clients as well as working at grassroots level with various social organizations. She also understood that if she wants to help people in slums then giving charity was very temporary solutions they can only come out of slums if they develop skills and self-esteem by doing professional jobs. A graphic and animation specialist by training, she gave free training to economically challenged kids and made sure that almost of them could get jobs and earned respectable living. Her innovative ideas, by marring her professional skills to the social causes, in the world of social work were ahead of time! Recently, she also started a movement called India redefined" - a grassroots level movement, whose membership is growing everyday, which is about empowering ordinary citizens to take ownership of their everyday issues. Without any complaints about her hectic life, she continues to run her chosen life with the same joy, zeal and enthusiasm. Her amazing story gives a clear message to millions of middle-class married woman that anything is possible with the right commitment and sincerity. They can also "have a cake and eat it too".
