'India Redefined' is Ranjana's objective

Ranjana Kanti is so inspired by Gandhian philosophy that she decided that something needs to be done so that the country goes into a direction where there is only progress and happiness everywhere around. Her idea materialized in the form of India Redefined.

their social responsibility".

It has just been four months since the movement was started and it has more than 1.5 lakh followers. India Redefined focuses on 22 causes. Ranjana says, "I took the initiative as I was already a social worker. I always went beyond my capacity whenever I saw someone in need. Then I thought it hardly takes time and energy to do small activities which can change someone's life completely. So I started approaching my friends on Facebook from where India Redefined emerged. I would love some younger who has passion for the same work to take over me and be the leader of this strong empowerment movement. Its success depends wholly and solely on huge participation of people".

Ranjana informs, "Anyone can join the movement by visiting the website and following some simple steps. India Redefined has some very basic activities where you have to plant 10 trees and inspire 10 more people to do so. It also has activities where you can teach some underprivileged children who can't learn computers but wish to do so. We are also coming up with Educate India where participants will take oath that before getting into a job after their studies, they would work as a teacher in a school where there are no good teachers. Cyberweek is also coming up. In this we would create awareness about cyber safety."

She concludes saying, "India Redefined doesn't promise to make everything perfect but it promises to make everyone happy. Let perfection not be the enemy of goodness."

Ranjana says, "It is a citizen empowerment movement where they don't have to give money but individual personal energy and a little bit of their time for taking care of
